HOPE THAT FUND TO FIGHT WORM IS COMING

Governor Frear will take up with J. P. Cooke, on the latter's return to Honolulu, the matter of raising a fund for a campaign against the boll worm that is now threatening local cotton crops.

The Governor is giving the matter his attention and when Mr. Cooke, who is a member of the conservation fund commission, returns, an effort will probably be made to get $1,500 from this or another source with which to finance the campaign.

The publication by the Bulletin of the straits in which some growers of cotton are finding themselves, due to the ravages of the boll worm, has attracted much attention. Prospects are good for the raising of the fund. "I thought," said the Governor this morning, "that it would be better to wait until Mr. J. P. Cooke came back. He is a member of the conservation fund and is also very interested in the cotton industry. Before he went away he offered to put up $1,500 if the growers would find the other $1,500 necessary. Consequently I thought it better to wait until he returned before I took any action on the matter. I have been thinking over the whole situation to see if something could be done and then I came to the decision I have just told you of. Mr. Cooke should be back about the end of this month."

Land Commissioner Charles S. Judd stated this morning that although he was aware of the trouble it had never come up to the board of agriculture and he did not know what the board could do on the matter. Attorney General Alexander Lindsay, Jr., said that the matter of whether or not the money could be taken out of the conservation fund was a point that had never come up and that he would have to go into the question before he could give an opinion.

"NEAR OPIUM" IS LATEST

That there is more ways to bring opium into the Territory than by wrapping it up in brown paper and telling the customs man that it is washing is common knowledge. The fact that there is a "near opium" that a little while ago might be bought at the Chinese drugstore, ready to slip in the pipe and puff away at is not known to all, however.

This is a quality that is never heard of for it is particularly a Chinese commodity and was formerly brought into the country under the guise of a cure for opium smokers. A law was passed some time ago prohibiting its entrance and now the only way in which it can come in is by secret channels.

It is got up in little bottles about two and a half inches high and containing anywhere in the neighborhood of 100 little red pellets. Each of these contains enough opium to give the smoker fine dreams and quite sufficient to do him when he cannot get the genuine article. The percentage of opium in the pills ranges slightly over fifty in some of the samples that were tested out and there was a tremendous sale for the article. Even now it can still be purchased although not openly.

Dr. Cooper reports that the condition of Dr. McGrew, who was so unfortunate as to fracture his hip yesterday in a fall at his home, is doing nicely. No bad complications have appeared and the doctor passed a restful night.

The first rehearsal for the concert to be given at the Opera House on October 17th for the benefit of Palama Settlement was held last night and was an enthusiastic one. Mrs. Harrison has much praise for the work of her assistants and everything points to an artistic success.

RUSH YEAR IS PLANNED FOR NAVAL STATION

Plans involving the expenditure of millions more at Pearl Harbor are now being developed at the Bureau of Yards and Docks in Washington. According to these plans, the next session of Congress will be asked for several big appropriations and a vast amount of work will be begun next summer and rushed to completion.

Private advices have been received here from Washington within the last few days giving the first details of the plans, together with assurances that the whole station is to be completed by the time the big drydock is finished. The Bulletin is able to present below the first public information on the starting of new work at Pearl Harbor under these contemplated appropriations.

The Bureau of Yards and Docks hopes to be able to secure from the next Congress approximately $550,000 for a sea-wall at Pearl Harbor and other waterfront improvements. For paving at the harbor, $150,000 or $175,000 will be asked.

For underground conduits, pipelines, etc., about the same amount is needed and will be asked. Furthermore, a number of additional buildings will be asked for, the total cost of which will run into the hundreds of thousands.

This for this work will be called for about the middle of next summer, and it is worthy of note that the bureau has figured months ahead on the details and is planning the whole work now so that it can be completed when the drydock is finished.

The bureau plans, specifications and contracts are all being drawn so that

VALUABLE DATA FROM MARCHES; OFFICERS MUST GO TO SCHOOL

These are marching days for the army in Oahu. Every arm of the service is getting its share of strenuous hikes, the next on the list for a practice march round the island being the Infantry. The First Field Artillery returned completing its march last week, the Fifth Cavalry are now en route, and on the eighteenth all three battalions of the Second Infantry will hit the pike. The third battalion, stationed at Fort Shafter will join the first and second at Lelehu, and on the return will drop off at its own post.

These practice marches mean considerably more to the military organization of the island than the mere drilling of troops in transportation. There is a strategic side to them that makes them of great value not only to the troops actually engaged but to the Department of Hawaii as a whole.

On every march officers are detailed to make careful topographical maps of the route and adjacent country, and to keep up what is technically known as the journal of march, which contains statistical information as to conditions of road, subsistence and the chance for caring for a large body of men. These papers are sent to department headquarters and carefully filed for future reference.

It is the intention of General Macomb to have the mobile army in Oahu familiar with every foot of the island, so that in the extreme case of invasion no time would be lost in costly transportation experiments.

The announcement that Major A. M. Davis, commissary, has been ordered to the Philippines was received here this morning with surprise and regret in both service and civilian circles. The surprise is due to the fact that Major Davis has but recently returned from duty in the Philippines. The regret needs no explanation to those who have come in personal contact with Major Davis during his stay in Honolulu.

Vacation will be over for the army officers November 1. Then they'll have to strap up their books and go to school like good little boys.

Garrison school, as it is called, must be attended by all the officers at a post. They have their recitations and their examinations, and are expected to keep up with the march of progress in the theoretical side of things military.

For the army this term the course will be as follows: Military law, Nov. 1 to Dec. 14; International law, Dec. 15 to Feb. 5; tactics, Feb. 6 to Mar. 30.

For the marine corps the following course is set down: Map reading, infantry fire, military topography and applied tactics. The school covers the same period as the army instruction.

FAMOUS JAPANESE FINANCIER HERE AFTER TOUR OF U. S.

After investigating financial conditions in the United States, where he visited almost all the principal cities, Baron Y. Sakatani, one of the foremost financiers of Japan, arrived this morning on the Siberia, en route home. He was met at the wharf by the representatives of the local consulate-general, and under the pilotage of Consul-General S. Uyeno went down to Wai-pahu plantation. At noon the baron was luncheon at the official residence of Consul-General Uyeno on Nuuanu avenue.

Baron Sakatani was minister of finance before the Katsura regime. He is an authority on the financial condition of Japan today, and it is likely that he will be appointed financial adviser of the Salongi cabinet after his arrival in Japan.

During the international economic congress held in Switzerland, Baron Sakatani represented his government well. His services were so satisfactory to Japan that he received the praise of all the high dignitaries in the land.

While his mission to the United States was of a private nature, it is said he was sent there under special imperial orders with a view to finding out certain matters pertaining to financial relations between the two countries.

Police At ITALY READY TO RIOTOUS SCENES

(Associated Press Cable.)

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Oct. 10.—Such riotous scenes attended the election today in which the ballot for the women of California is the issue that the police were forced to interfere. Over-zealous suffragists were restrained by the police.

The voting over the State seems to be light.

SECOND TIME CALIFORNIA WOMEN HAVE TRIED IT

For the second time in the history of the State, California is voting today whether women shall have the right to cast the ballot.

The last time women's suffrage was submitted to the ballot it was defeated by only 9,000 votes. Times have changed greatly since then and the advocates of women's rights are not only more hopeful of success than ever before but quite confident that California will win the honor of becoming the sixth State in the Union to grant suffrage to women.

More than two years ago the first step was taken to prepare the women of California for just such an emergency.

She described the actual shooting as she saw it. United States District Attorney Breckons was also placed on the stand and questioned as to his knowledge of the affair and as far as swearing out the warrant was concerned. Attorney Eugene Murphy made an attempt to have Sergeant McMahon go free, but failed, and he now stands committed for trial.

PROGRESSIVE DEMOCRATS ARE OFF IN ELABORATE CAMPAIGN

BY C. S. ALBERT.

(Special Bulletin Correspondence.)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 26.—The Federation of Democratic Precinct Clubs, an organization formed to secure the nomination of a progressive Democrat for President, has just begun active work. A call was sent out for assistance from Democrats throughout the country who believe in smashing the machines and creating a new order of things in political life. Committees of one hundred prominent Democrats for each State and Territory will be named, these committees to have personal supervision of their own State or Territory.

Democratic Senators behind the movement say it is mainly an effort to quarantine their party against the corrupting influence of the interests, influences which they feel will be brought to bear if they are successful in electing a Democratic President.

To guard against these influences, the Federation is working to build up the progressive Democratic movement from the ground floor. In each of the 100,000 voting precincts in the United States clubs are to be formed, the members of which will see to it that the men they support for office and as delegates to county, State or national conventions are of the proper caliber and can not be influenced by the interests.

Elaborate Organization.

These clubs, according to program, are to be consolidated into 25,000 county federations, 1000 city federations, 48 State federations and one national federation.

To perfect this organization will re-

FEDERAL ORDERS MAY STOP UNRIPE FRUIT COMING HERE

A large percentage of the fruit now being shipped into Honolulu out of San Francisco may be confiscated on arrival at this port. Such is the opinion of Food Commissioner Edward B. Blanchard, commenting on the cable that was received by the Bulletin yesterday afternoon stating that Washington will confiscate unripe Florida fruit.

The cable was on arrival taken to Entomologist Ehrhorn, who was present at the meeting of the members of the Board of Agriculture and Forestry held yesterday afternoon, and he explained the situation. Briefly it is this:

Under the pure food laws of the United States unripe fruit can not be sold or taken from one State to another for the purposes of sale. This includes oranges and similar fruits that are picked green and then thrown into a "sweet case," where the heat causes them to "yellow," but without ripening. Much of the fruit that comes to Honolulu is in this condition owing to the fact that it is easier to pack.

Mr. Blanchard said this morning that he did not know of any ruling of the food laws that would cover this case and that it must be the latest interpretation of either the adulteration laws or those dealing with wrong labeling. "If they have such an interpretation now," he said, "I will in all probability get a letter instructing me to see that the importation of such fruit is stopped at this end. Frequently after they make a new ruling on the mainland I get a letter telling me to stop certain things coming into the Territory, but so far they have all been in connection with things that we do not import here."

"With this fruit it will be different, and if I receive instructions I shall have to stop all fruit that I consider unfit for importation, under this construction of the law, coming into the port, which will mean a great deal. The general trade of California must undergo a great change so far as the orange industry is concerned. The fruit has to be picked green in order to make it carry. I know nothing about the matter yet, but I will in all probability receive instructions from headquarters as to what is to be done here."

FAKE BEER YARN DISPROVED BY BLANCHARD

Food Commissioner Edward B. Blanchard has completed his analysis of the samples of "near beer" which he obtained from Lelehu on the day of the Cederlof murder. The results show that instead of containing a higher percentage of alcohol than is allowed by law, the beer is under, the official figures showing a content of 1.98 per cent, while up to 2 per cent. is allowed.

Mr. Blanchard had contemplated taking the samples for some time previous to the murder, but, curiously enough, happened to obtain them on the afternoon of the day on which the murder was committed. He took one from the cavalry post and the other from the infantry. After he returned to town the murder was done, and then somebody started the story going the rounds that the near beer at the infantry post was not near beer at all, but was the genuine article, and further tried to trace some connection between this and the murder.

According to Blanchard's figures, Sergeant McMahon, the murderer of

COL. PARKER NO FREAR MAN

A San Francisco paper comments on the departure of Col. Sam Parker for Hawaii as follows:

"Colonel Sam Parker, the well known Honolulu man, crowned with a 'reis' of California flowers, was a picturesque figure at the rail of the Matson liner Wilhelmiana, which steamed at noon yesterday for Honolulu and Hilo. Accompanied by his son, Ernest, the Colonel is returning home after a brief sojourn on the Coast. He expects to be here again next month with Prince 'Cupid.' The Colonel laughed when asked if he had any aspirations to be Governor of Hawaii, but said that he was interested in finding a man to succeed Governor Frear, who Parker and other island politicians declare, does not represent all the people."

LIDGATE DIES AT CORNELL

A cablegram was received in this city this morning conveying the news of the death of William Lidgate, a student, in his junior year at Cornell University. Young Lidgate was but twenty-one years of age and a son of A. Lidgate, of Hawaii.

The deceased was a student at Puhonua for a number of years, graduating in the class of '08, and with the roll of honor. While here attending college he was noted as one of the best football men on the ground and pulled off some wonderful plays. His father and mother are now traveling some place in the Eastern States, while there are two sisters in Puna-hou at the present time.

The cablegram was received by Mrs. A. F. Cooke, of Kaimuki, who is an aunt of the deceased.
